Extracting honey from bees involves several precise steps to ensure both the quality of the honey and the well-being of the bees. The process begins with inspecting the beehive to ensure the frames are filled with mature honey, indicated by capped cells. Once confirmed, the beekeeper uses a smoker to calm the bees, reducing their defensive behavior.

Next, the frames are removed from the hive and any bees are gently brushed off. The frames are then taken to the honey extraction area. Before extraction, the wax cappings that seal the honey in the cells must be removed. This is done using a specialized uncapping knife or fork, which gently slices through the wax.

The uncapped frames are placed into an extractor, a centrifuge device that spins the frames at high speed. This action forces the honey out of the cells and it collects at the bottom of the extractor. The extracted honey is then filtered to remove any remaining wax particles and impurities.

Finally, the honey is poured into sterilized jars for storage. It is crucial to ensure that the bees have enough honey left in the hive for their own consumption, especially before winter. Proper handling and care are essential throughout the process to maintain the integrity of the honey and the health of the bee colony.

66. What indicates that the frames are filled with mature honey?

1. Presence of bees
2. Presence of wax particles
3. Uncapped cells
4. Capped cells
5. High-speed spinning

67. What is the purpose of using an uncapping knife or fork?

1. To inspect the hive
2. To remove bees from frames
3. To spin the frames
4. To slice through wax cappings
5. To filter the honey

68. Why is it important to leave enough honey in the hive?

1. For the bees' consumption
2. For storage purposes
3. For filtering impurities
4. For high-speed spinning
5. For removing wax particles

MOCK TEST (AAEC 2024) : ระดับประถมศึกษาตอนต้น (ป.1 - ป.3)

Neil Armstrong was an American astronaut. He was the first person to walk on the moon. On July 20, 1969, Neil Armstrong and his team went to the moon on the Apollo 11 mission. The other astronauts on the mission were Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins. Neil Armstrong's famous words when he stepped onto the moon were, "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."

The journey to the moon was very long and took four days. The astronauts had to wear special suits to protect them in space. When they landed on the moon, Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin explored the surface, took pictures, and collected rocks. Michael Collins stayed in the command module and orbited the moon.

Neil and Buzz planted an American flag on the moon. They also left a plaque that said, "Here men from the planet Earth first set foot upon the Moon, July 1969 A.D. We came in peace for all mankind." After spending about 21 hours on the moon, Neil and Buzz returned to the command module. The three astronauts then traveled back to Earth safely and became heroes.
